2013 ORCHARD BLOCK PINOT NOIR

*The pioneering winery Sokol Blosser added no new vineyards, but a new generation seems to have rediscovered its mojo.

Our Single Block program showcases the variation and nuanced expressions of the different vineyards on our Estate. Due to replanting our estate vineyard from 1998 to 2011, our single block production has ranged from limited to none each vintage. Now, mature and back in full production, we are pleased to share these limited production and distinct expressions of our extraordinary estate vineyard blocks in custom six-bottle wooden boxes.

Established on six acres of the Sokol Blosser estate that used to be an orchard of plum trees intended for prunes, our Orchard Block was given its name because, as Susan Sokol Blosser said, "Prune Block" just doesn't sound as appealing. The block is planted to a single clone of Pinot Noir, Dijon 777 in the famous clay loam Jory soil.

Our 2013 Orchard Block Pinot Noir is brimming with flavors of orange zest, Bing cherry and black pepper with a cocoa powder finish.

VINTAGE HIGHLIGHTS

2013 was the driest year since 1985, which was one of the best years for Pinot Noir here at Sokol Blosser. Harvest started on September 10 and ended on October 10, making this the first time in more than a decade that we were picking grapes over a five week period.

In 1971, the Sokol Blosser family planted grapes on just five acres in the Dundee Hills. As one of the pioneering wineries of the region, Sokol Blosser has played a key role in developing and shaping the now-prominent Oregon wine industry. The winery is family owned and operated, with the second generation now at the helm: siblings Alex and Alison Sokol Blosser. Achieving B Corp certification in 2015, the estate has grown to more than 85 acres under cultivation, and the winery works to create wines of world-class quality, produced in a sustainable manner, which reflect the distinctive flavors of the grapes, soil and climate. Cheers!
